This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. MODERN MEDICAL SCIENCE.

THE GYNECOLOGICAL PRACTICE OF DR. KILMER, BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

(Correspondence New York Scientific Times.)

There are doubtless a great many readers of the "Scientific Times" who have at one time or another heard something about the remarkable cures performed by Dr. S. Andral Kilmer, of Binghamton. For thirty years past he has been looked up to as an authority of the highest order upon everything relating to gynecological science, to which department of the healing art he has chiefly devoted himself. In fact, the diseases of woman are probably understood by no one else in the United States more thoroughly than by Dr. Kilmer. He and the late Dr. J. Marion Sims, of New York, have done more for suffering womankind than any score of other practitioners put together. Your correspondent, being in Binghamton for a few days, took the opportunity to secure the very excellent likeness of Dr. Kilmer, which is annexed. It represents a man of learning, science, dignity and honorable methods.

Dr. Kilmer has at different times formulated various valuable preparations, which, however, remain secrets with him. Dr. Kilmer's Herbal Remedies are founded on the true theory that God has provided in nature a remedy for every disease. Of the tens of thousands of plants for medicine only a few are known. Why stop short of the possibilities God permits for healing the sick?

The following are Dr. Kilmer's leading family medicines: Dr. Kilmer's Complete Female Remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Autumn-Leaf Extract, Dr. Kilmer's U. & O. (Meadow Plant) Anointment, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root Kidney, Liver and Bladder Cure. Dr. Kilmer's Ocean Weed Heart Remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Indian Consumption Oil, Dr. Kilmer's Prompt Parilla Pills. There is abundant evidence as to their value. The worthy Doctor has thousands of letters from patients in different parts of the country telling of the wonderful cures of female diseases, Bright's disease, diabetes, gravel, dyspepsia, &c., that his remedies have effected. The annexed letter is an example:

SIDNEY PLAINS, Feb. 29th. 1884

DR. S ANDRAL KILMER—Sir—I send you herewith photographs of myself and family. You, sir, can understand the improvement in my wife better when you think back to the time you saw her on what was thought to be her deathbed I had then exhausted all means for her restoration to health, but was finally prevailed upon to try your remedies, only thinking to obtain improvement enough to warrant her being taken to England as a last resort. But the use of your remedies has given her renewed health and strength, so that this is why we cannot be sufficiently grateful to you for her restoration to the enjoyment of God's greatest blessing Hoping this will find you and yours in the possession of the same,

WM. E. BARKER,
Foreman of Repair Shops of D. & H C. Co. R. R.

Dr. Kilmer has an immense practice here, and patients come to him for hundreds of miles round about. Those who read this and are suffering from ill-health, would do well to send to him for his circulars, Invalids' Guide to Health, &c.

Dedication.

To the friends of the University, who aided it in its hour of darkness and trial, who enabled it to attain its present position, and who rejoice with us in its prosperity, this volume is dedicated by the Editors.

Greeting.

Kind Friends:

Once more the ONONDAGAN greets you, a little late it is true, but nevertheless welcomed we believe by every loyal son of Syracuse.

The past year has been a prosperous one for our institution. Two additions have been made to our faculty. The department of Natural Science has been strengthened by the appointment of an alumnus of the institution as instructor. The good seed sown in former years is returning an abundant harvest. The recent additions to the endowment have rendered it also possible to enlarge the scope of the Department of Modern Languages. Through the kindness of many friends the Museum has been increased with some needed collections.

We welcome to our ranks a new college fraternity. Phi Kappa Psi has established among us its New York Beta Chapter. The new arrival may be assured of a hearty welcome from the different chapters already located here.

We present the portrait of a representative member of the faculty of each college in our University: Professor J. J. Brown, of the College of Liberal Arts; Professor G. F. Comfort, Dean of the College of Fine Arts; and Professor Frederick Hyde, Dean of the College of Medicine. This generosity may be thought unnecessary since some of the characters appear in the restored Greek frieze illustrated on later pages.

In the department of Athletics we are able to present several best records made this year. While we do not boast of our greatness in this line we will not yield the palm without a struggle. Base ball is not our forte. Cause,—lack of time.

The three secret societies who have formerly issued the ONONDAGAN voluntarily opened the Onondagan Board to representation from all elements of the class. Judge the success of the experiment by the quality of our work.

We have made all possible additions and corrections in the Alumni Directory so ably pioneered by our predecessors. We deem this a service to our Alma Mater and her Alumni.

Again, kind friends, the Class of Eighty-Five greets you. We trust that you may find that which will interest, please and instruct you in our pages.

Sketch of Dr. Brown.

DR. JOHN J. BROWN, whose portrait we present to our readers, was born at Amenia, Dutchess Co., N. Y., almost under the eaves of the Amenia Seminary. At an early age he developed an aptitude for mechanical pursuits, which his surroundings and the watchfulness of a careful and earnest mother seconded. He has often repeated to his classes that he believed the encouragement he thus early received had an important bearing on his future career. At the age of sixteen his parents removed to Lima, N. Y., where he attended the seminary. No college claims him as an alumnus.

In 1842 Dr. Brown entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, and joined the West Genesee Conference. For fifteen years he was an active pastor, but in 1857 was appointed to have charge of the Dansville Seminary. After remaining there for six years he was elected principal of the East Genesee Conference Seminary. In 1855 he removed to Fulton, N. Y., where he taught five years in the Falley Seminary. For one year he was Professor of Chemistry and Industrial Mechanics in Cornell University, which position he resigned in 1871, feeling that his duty called him to aid in the foundation of Syracuse University. Of his work here we need not speak.

Besides his work in the class-room Dr. Brown has been a contributor to many of the scientific periodicals. For five years he was editor of Humphrey's Journal of Photography;

Respectfully Yours,

P. P. Brown.

THE NEW YORK
PUBLIC LIBRARY
ASTOR LENOX
TILDEN FOUNDATIONS

during ten years he edited the scientific department of the Northern Christian Advocate, published in this city; and he has at varions times written articles which were published in the Scientific American. For eleven years he took observations for the U. S. Meteorological bureau, and was four years inspector of alcohol and coal oils for Western New York. He has delivered lectures at various times on scientific subjects.

When Dr. Brown left the ministry and began to teach he did not by that act sink into inactivity in Christian work. He has always been strenuous in his efforts to make his influence felt in this direction. The Y. M. C. A. of the college has always found ready support from him in all its work, and he has always been ready to aid them to the utmost of his power. In doing this, he has never obtruded his own opinions in a dictatorial manner upon the classes who have come under his instruction and influence, although ever ready to defend them when called upon.

The department of science, in which the greater part of his life has been spent, is chemistry. In this field he has made several valuable discoveries.

Professor Brown received the degree of A. M. from Genesee College, and the degree of LL. D., without his own solicitation or knowledge, from McKendree College.

In common with several of the older professors, the University owes to Dr. Brown a debt of gratitude which it can never pay. Coming here when the project was deemed chimerical by many, he has given the best years of his life to the institution. Resisting the most tempting offers from more favored colleges, he has been true to the call of duty. For thirteen years he has never failed to be in his place when able.

Dr. Brown is now in his sixty-fifth year. That he may be spared to enjoy the pursuit of his favorite science many years is the wish of his large circle of friends.

CLASS OF '84.

ONLY a few weeks longer can we strut through college halls with the dignity of Seniors, "the observed of all observers." Soon we will be Freshmen again, Freshmen in a new school—the hard school of the world. The last year of our history has not been crowded with startling events. The buoyant spirit which animated the class in its Freshman and Sophomore years has been checked and tamed. As in the blooded steed, the spirit still remains, but we do not jump out of the traces. In the days when we attempted to blow up the Hall of Languages, the Faculty took us for a pack of Modocs. This year several of us have received calls as missionaries to the savages. We long since laid aside our sword and shield and left the fighting for the lower classes. But strange to say we have scarcely been able to inspire a little friendly rivalry between the Sophomores and Freshmen, that we might watch them slaughter one another.

Scarcely aught have we done since last fall but study metaphysics, copy orations (copy is used advisedly), and read novels. But stay, we have neglected the proverbial maiden who holds sway in the Senior year. Personally we are prone to neglect such things, but many of our esteemed classmates are not. They are constant worshipers at the shrine of Venus, and know well those offerings which are most pleasing to the fickle goddess. The hours of worship are from 8 P. M. to—well, let that pass. He who should find a Senior at work in the evening would not be more surprised should he see his own ghost, or should a Junior offer him a glass of—lemonade.

In the Fall term the class met in social reunion at the residence of the Chancellor. It was a most enjoyable occasion, one of the bright spots in our college course.

We all expect to get on at Commencement. Each member has exercised great care in the preparation of his oration to select from standard authors, and these have been most conscientiously revised and remodeled. Ergo, why shouldn't we come on?

We are but a remnant of the great class which sat in the chapel on that memorable day, when '83, as if to give solemn import to the Amen of the Professor, rained upon our innocent heads a shower of salt and torpedoes. We are small in numbers but mighty in cribs and cheek, and in the hearts of the fair sex. We are youthful and blooming in appearance. Ye gods, grant to some member a full beard ere the end of the year.

It is with regret that we leave the familiar scenes of four years, and the joys, comforts and good fellowship of college life. With sorrow shall we exchange the last hand shake with our classmates. To our Alma Mater we say not adieu but au revoir.

Class of '85.

ANOTHER year has passed, and the Class of '85 has attained to the lofty distinction of Juniors, and now smiles complacently down upon the lower classmen. Growth has produced some wonderful transformations. Gentility has taken the place of greenness; our rough edges have been smoothed off; defections have thinned our ranks; and the eloquence of last year's Sophomore Exhibition, "the best ever given in Syracuse," has developed into Junior orations.

The past year has been one of stirring events. The latent energy of the class has been awakened anew. '86 in its ice cream act displayed the only gleam of genius which has characterized its course. In spite of our utmost efforts, in spite of hornings, of seasonings with red pepper, etc., etc., we have never been able to disturb the torpor that has settled upon them. Once they did attempt to distinguish themselves but their slavish fear compelled them to beg the upper classmen to intercede for them. For many nights to come will dire dreams haunt the troubled Sophomore. A fresh and vigilant foe is on his track.

Our first appearance on the chapel rostrum was both pleasing and natural. New and refreshing articles on prominent characters and popular questions have held the audience spell-bound. Cæsar, Alexander, and Napoleon have been retired; the ghost of the "father of his country" has not been invoked; Joan of Arc has not been on the bills, although Savanarola has made three appearances and been tortured, greatly to the delight (?) of the Freshmen.

'85 is the "Chancellor's Class!" She has versatile genius and uses it to the best advantage. Last field-day, as at other times, she showed her athletic mettle and demonstrated that she succeeds in whatever she undertakes. In base ball she has never been defeated.

For the first time in our history we have been called upon to mourn the death of a classmate. A strange feeling crept over us when the news first arrived that Warren S. Robbins was dead. It seemed scarcely possible that a life so consecrated to truth and honor could go out in darkness. Among the memories that will come rushing back upon us in the years to come as we think of our college days, will be strangely mingled the familiar form and grave, earnest face of "Robbie."

Class of '86.

THE Class of '86 wheels into line her serried battalions for a second annual review. Stand back ye æsthetic Juniors and gaping Freshmen, while her book-worn veterans march past. Geometry, Trigonometry, Demosthenes, Plato, Juvenal, the Bell Vowel Table, all have yielded to our indomitable will. Venimus, vidimus, vicimus. Among our captured battle-flags is one marked with the cabalistic signs b. h. a. o. s.

The heroes of history grow pale and hide their periwigs for envy, when '86 is mentioned. '87 looked upon us and trembled; she betook herself to the hollows of Harrison Street, and there in secret conclave apportioned us for the slaughter. Alas! we were never slain. We met them in the arena of the University parlors. Fear (ice cream) froze their vitals. They partook of the viands—that is, they took all they could get. Freshmen always do. We forgave them; we remembered our weakness for cream and were lenient. We met them again in the hall. 'Twas a cold February night. Horror gathers round the scene. Mud, modeling clay, and water gathered round the Freshmen. Wet, stiff, and mad, sans hats, sans shoes, sans ceremony, they fled. Moral: Don't try to paste valentines over the Sophomores' closets, for fear that somebody should be looking at you.

Our record has been sullied by no defeats. On the last annual field day '85 was there in all her vigor; with confidence and knotted muscles she laid hold of the rope. Some eight or ten of '86's stalwart sons who happened to be on the ground, caught up the other end, and the "Chancellor's Class" slid over the line in majestic helplessness. In base-ball we played them half a game, and no challenges could ever induce them to finish it. Nor have our victories been confined to athletics. In the glorious and ever broadening realm of the intellect we have towered head and shoulders above all others. We have plucked the rarest flowers from the blooming genius of Homer; we have dug countless treasures from the mine of Analytics. We have advised, we have threatened, we have petitioned, but we have never cut,—the only reproach upon our remarkable class.

But our chief success has been in oratory. The shades of Philips, Webster, Demosthenes, Sparticus, Booth have been hovering around our heads. Never before has such eloquence shaken the "Hall of Languages." In the thundered invective and the whispered love scene our melodious (?) voices have been equally effective. All have listened in open-mouthed wonder to the burning words of these modern Chrysostoms. Why did those brave couples walk in solitary magnificence from the lighted parlors of Shonnard Street, homeward, through the impenetrable darkness? The Sophomore had been there. Who was peppered this time, friend Junior? The ways of a Soph are past finding out.

So our history unfolds. Steadily onward our march has ever been. Firm in integrity, unwavering in purpose, working steadily for the accomplishment of a great aim, what may our record not become? After the thinnings of a year's time and of the fell destroyer, Matrimony, we are still the largest class in college. When we greet you again we expect to have put on the dignified cloak of Junioric pomposity; until then we are jolly, good-natured, happy-go-lucky Sophomores.

When, in the future ages of this terrestrial and somewhat oblate spheroid, the diurnal motion of the earth shall gradually slacken, until at last it comes to a standstill in its orbit, on the top-most crag of the upper illuminated surface will be seen standing, in majestic grandeur and native dignity, a band with intellectual foreheads and noble mien; and, as the mists clear away, and the music of the spheres rolls on and is lost, a sweeter strain shall break forth from those concordant throats, "Vive la '86."

Class of '87.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1883, was an auspicious day in the history of our University. Among the learned faculty the faces of three new professors were seen; but no event was so remarkable, nothing happened that attracted so much attention, as the appearance of a new class in the far-famed Hall of Languages.

As, in the animal world, the early, and consequently less perfect forms of development, have given way to higher forms, so the Class of '86, a form of life less perfect, had given way to the superior development of '87.

At the appointed hour the new class took its place in the seats "reserved" for them in the chapel. How the Sophomores stared at us! There were two causes for this. The first cause, was the natural superiority of the Class of '87; and the second cause was that '87 has a large number of ladies vulgarly called "co-eds." The Sophomores could scarcely wait for the "amen" of the prayer. Now and then one of them might be seen looking through his fingers at the new class.

After chapel there was no "salt," neither did they give us a "rush;" although we did not know whether we would receive these "fitting preludes" or no:, we rather surmised that they would come; nevertheless, the Sophomores did want us to sing. The upper classmen had piped and harped, '86 had rent the air with discords, and after many Sophomoric yells for '87, she struck the key-note and charmed even the natives by her strains of melody, which would have put Orpheus to shame had he heard the enchanting harmony.

The Sophomores manifested their liberality by giving us a "feed," "pulse to eat and water to drink." It is needless to say that we thrived on this dainty fare; our appearance indicates it.

'86 was anxious to play base-ball! '87 willingly accepted her challenge. After a long and close contest, '86 barely won. Soon after another game was played; this time our foe was almost annihilated. Foot ball proved equally disastrous to '86. This was their Waterloo. Vanquished, torn and bleeding, they retreated from the field; we were the heroes of the hour. We challenged any "ball-nine" in College to play with us, but none could be found to champion a forlorn cause.

It is not in athletic sports, however, that we have achieved the greatest distinction. Again and again has the voice of our honored Latin Professor resounded in our praise. Other members of the faculty have complimented us in a similar manner. In our essays nearly every branch of human (and some inhuman) knowledge has been explored and many astounding facts discovered. From the deepest political, metaphysical and theological topics down to gas, (gass.)

It has always been customary for the lower classes to have literaries until they become Seniors, when they "put away childish things." In accordance with this precedent we held a very successful literary through which "peace and quiet reigned."

Fearing that the readers of this history may pronounce us egotistical in thus prolonging the record of our good deeds, we will close with this prophecy: And it shall come to pass that she shall be called the Prince of classes.

Sketch of Dr. Hyde.

FREDERICK HYDE, M. D., of Cortland, N. Y., Dean of the Medical Faculty of Syracuse University, and Professor of the Principles and Practice of Surgery was born at Whitney's Point, Broome County, New York, January 27th, 1809. His grandfather was General Caleb Hyde, of Berkshire Co., Mass., who won fame as a brave and skillful officer during the Revolutionary War. Dr. Hyde passed his early life in his native place, and obtained his education through private tutors and in the public and grammar schools of the town. In 1831, he began to read medicine with Dr. Moe, of Tompkins County. Subsequently he became a pupil of Dr. Horace Bronson, of Cortland County. He attended three courses of lectures at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of the Western District of New York, located at Fairfield, and obtained his diploma of Doctor of Medicine from that institution in 1836. He was married in 1838, to Miss Eliza Goodyear, a daughter of Dr. Miles Goodyear, of Cortland, New York, and established himself in Cortland, where he has since resided and actively practiced his profession. In 1854, he was appointed Professor of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children in Geneva Medical College. In 1855 he was transferred to the Chair of Surgery in the same institution, and occupied that position until the closing of the college, and the organization of the Medical Department of Syracuse University in 1872, when he became Professor of Surgery in the faculty of that school. Previous to his connection with the Geneva Medical College he had for a few years taught a private class in anatomy in Cortland. Dr. Hyde has been twice elected President of the Cortland County Medical Society. He is also a member of the Southern Central Medical Association of New York, and has been its President. Dr. Hyde is a permanent member of the New York State Medical Society, and in 1865 was President of that body. In 1868, he was a delegate from this society to the State Medical Society of New Jersey. He was one of the organizers of the American Medical Association, and is a permanent member of that organization. In 1876, he was a delegate to the International Medical Congress held at Philadelphia in connection with the Centennial Exhibition. Dr. Hyde has contributed a number of scholarly articles to the literature of his profession. During the existence of the Southern Central Medical Association of New York, he contributed to its published transactions a series of reports on the surgery of Cortland County. Among his other contributions to medical literature may be mentioned "Fracture of the Cranium," published in the Transactions of the New York State Medical Society in 1863. In 1878, he read a paper before the American Medical Association, "On the Process of Repair in Wounds With and Without Antiseptic Treatment." In 1883, he was appointed by Governor Cleveland to be a trustee of the Asylum for Idiots at Syracuse, which office he holds at the present time. He is also a member of the executive committee of that board. In his long and successful professional career, extending now over a period of more than forty-eight years, Dr. Hyde has treated a large number of remarkable cases in general practice and has likewise performed many of the most difficult operations in surgery.

Dr. Hyde has been very active in promoting the welfare of public education. He was President of the Board of Trustees of Cortlandville Academy for eighteen of the twenty-five years of its existence. He has been a member of the local board of the Cortland Normal School since the school was organized in 1869. Hon. Henry S. Randall, president of the board, died in 1876; Dr. Hyde was elected to be his successor in office. He has distinguished himself as a school officer, and has earned the sincere gratitude of all educators by his course during what is known as the celebrated Cortland Normal School controversy. This controversy was inaugurated in August, 1876, by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, who attempted covertly to appropriate to personal and political ends the normal school system of the State. He encroached gradually from 1876 to June, 1880, upon the legal prerogatives of the board of the Cortland Normal School; in the summer of 1880 he attempted boldly and openly to wrest the Normal School from the concurrent authority of the board. Dr. Hyde withstood with dignity and firmness the onslaughts of the Superintendent; he stood with unswerving purpose against blandishments and against threats; he and the board claimed concurrent authority in the administration of the affairs of the school. The controversy was carried by the Superintendent to the Supreme Court; the first two decisions were against the board; but the Court of Appeals sustained by its decision of April 18, 1882, every point claimed by it under the law. Dr. Hyde was in this controversy a true patriot; he enlarged the liberty of teachers; he added to the dignity of the profession of educators; he ennobled the privileges of independent citizenship.

Dr. Hyde was chosen a delegate from Cortland county to the American Medical Association, held in May, 1884, at Washington. By this association he was chosen a delegate to the British Medical Association, held at Belfast in July, and also to the International Medical Association, held at Copenhagen a little later.

The Medics.

WE are "Medics," and we are not ashamed of it. Popular opinion estimates the average medical student as "tough," but we think they do not always glean all the facts before they draw their conclusions. We are thought to be without feeling or morality while pursuing our course of study. But when we are possessed of a "sheep-skin" and authorized to practice, the ailing public first learn that there is virtue in our little cases (and heads). Then there is no class of men more trusted or respected either in the capacity of professional advisers or of citizens. There are bogus diplomas, and there are quack doctors, but we, as a class, should no more be judged by counterfeits than should the church be counted false because it sometimes includes hypocrites.

One reason why medical students are feared and distrusted is owing to a popular belief that our subjects for Practical Anatomy are supplied by nightly "resurrections." Any necessity for such uncanny practices has been removed by the law of this State. They will hereafter exist only in imagination and in anecdotes of doubtful authenticity.

Our Faculty is composed of gentlemen of the highest standing in their profession and in society. We are held by them strictly to the required course which is broad and comprehensive. "We were the second medical college in the United States to adopt in full a graded course, together with an extension of the scholastic year to nearly double the usual length." Study or cribs, or both, are required to pass our examinations.

We have our frolics as well as our clinics. It is quite an interesting exhibition to see some of the boys look "gone" when attending an operation at the hospital; but a ready cure is found by inverting the faint one. While our dissecting rooms are not inviting to sensitive olfactories, they will rival many housekeepers' kitchens in cleanliness.

We appreciate polite advances from the Liberal Art students, and hope to reciprocate their fraternal courtesies by taking a fair share of the prizes offered at Field Day and cultivating and continuing the acquaintance. We are loyal to the title of "Medics," but we are ever ready to join hands with the other colleges to maintain the honor of Syracuse University,

COLLEGE OF FINE ARTS

THE NEW YORK

Sketch of Prof. Comfort.

PROF. GEORGE FISK COMFORT, A. M., Dean of the College of Fine Arts, was born at Berkshire, N. Y., September 20, 1833. At an early age his family moved to Missouri where he began his life of study at St. Charles College. After completing his preparation at Cazenovia Seminary, in 1853 he entered the Wesleyan University. During the year 1854–'55 he taught painting and drawing at Wyoming Seminary, continuing his studies however and graduating in the Class of '57. For the next three years he engaged in teaching, occupying the position of instructor in Natural Sciences, Drawing and Painting in Amenia and Fort Plain Seminaries, and the Van Norman Institute in New York City.

With the year 1860 began his real life work. For the purpose of becoming familiar with the works of art of the old world, he entered upon a tour of Europe and the Orient. For six years he studied Æsthetics, History and Practice of Art, Archeology, and Philology at Rome, Florence, Munich, Berlin and Paris. Berlin at the time was filled with literary men from all over Europe, and through the kindness of a well-known savant who befriended him, Prof. Comfort had unusual advantages. Then, as now, Berlin was the intellectual capital of the world, and was especially the centre of art criticism.

Returning to America, for two years he occupied the chair of Modern Languages and Æsthetics in Allegheny College, Pennsylvania. Leaving there in 1868, New York was his home for the next four years. In 1872 he was called to the chair of Modern Languages in Syracuse University, and a year later was made Dean of the College of Fine Arts, both of which places he has most ably and acceptably filled.

Two lines of study have alike shared Prof. Comfort's attention. Beginning life as a teacher of drawing and painting he has never lost his interest in either of these subjects, although often compelled by the pressure of business to forego the pleasure of the studio. His work as Dean of the Fine Art College is not alone a matter of business but is also a labor of love for the cause of American Art. His personal experience as a teacher, his familiarity with the works of the best continental critics, as well as the results of his own study, render him eminently fit for the position he occupies.

Aside from his study of the Fine Arts, Prof. Comfort has been equally active in the cause of Philology. During his residence in New York, he wrote a series of text-books on the German Language, and took a very active part in the formation of the American Philological Society, of which he was secretary for five years. During the same time he was instrumental in founding the Metropolitan Museum of Art; he was also Lecturer in Christian Archeology in Drew Theological Seminary.

In addition to his other work, Prof. Comfort has been a constant contributor to the periodical literature of the day. He is the author of many of the articles on Archeology and Art in Johnson's and McClintock's Cyclopedias. For ten years he has been editor of the art department of the Northern Christian Advocate. He is a sincere believer in the utility of the modern languages as a means of education, and has ably enforced his belief with his pen. He is at present corresponding member of the Archeological Institutes of Rome, Paris and Berlin; he is a member of the American Oriental Society, as well as corresponding member of the American Anthropological Society.

Athletic Association.

CONSTITUTION.

Article I.—Name.

This organization shall be known as the Athletic Association of Syracuse University.

Article II.—Object.

The object of this Association shall be the promotion of such athletic sports as shall from time to time be deemed advisable.

Article III.—Membership.

Any member of Syracuse University shall be eligible to membership in this Association upon the payment of the required fees.

Article IV.—Officers and their Duties.

Section 1.—The officers of this Association shall consist of a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

Sec. 2.—The duties of the President and Vice-President shall be those usually devolving upon such officers.

Sec. 3.—The Secretary shall take full minutes of all the meetings and preserve a record of the same; conduct all correspondence; receive and record the reports of the Financial Committee, and keep a revised list of the members of the Association.

Sec. 4.—The Treasurer shall receive and hold in trust all moneys of the Association, and shall disburse the same only upon a written order signed by the chairman of the Financial Committee. He shall also render a full account of all moneys received and disbursed by him, at the regular meetings of the Association, and shall hold himself in readiness to give an account of the balance in the treasury at any meeting.

Article V.—Standing Committees and their Duties.

Section 1.—These shall consist of a Financial Committee of four, one from each class, and a Field Committee of three, one from each of the three lower classes.

Sec. 2.—It shall be the duty of the Financial Committee to solicit members; to receive all fees and render an account of the same to the Secretary, and pay into the treasury all money received.

Sec. 3.—It shall be the duty of the Field Committee to superintend the grounds; to purchase all supplies, and to be responsible for the safe keeping of all field property.

Article VI.—Amendments.

This Constitution may be amended at any regular meeting by a two-thirds vote of the members present.

BY-LAWS.

Article I.—Meetings.

Section 1.—The regular meetings of this Association shall be held on the second Wednesday of the Spring term, and the first Wednesday of the Fall term.

Sec. 2.—Other meetings shall be held at the call of the President, or upon the written request of any seven members.

Article II.—Quorum.

A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum.

Article III.—Elections.

Section 1.—The officers and standing committees shall be elected by ballot at the regular meeting in the Spring term, and shall hold office for one year, or until their successors are elected.

Sec. 2.—All vacancies shall be filled as soon as possible after their occurrence.

Article IV.—Dues.

Section 1.—Any member of the University may become a member of this Association by the payment of fifty cents.

Sec. 2.—The annual dues shall be fifty cents, payable at the regular meeting of the Spring term.

Article V.—Regulation of Expenses.

All expenses involving a sum of five dollars or upwards, shall be brought before the Association.

Article VI.—Dropping Names.

Any member six months in arrears shall be dropped from the list.

Article VII.—Use of Property.

None except regular members shall be entitled to the use of Association property.

Article VIII.—Organization of Ball Nine.

The Association shall elect the first five members of the University nine, who shall elect from their number a captain, and he shall select the remaining four, subject to the approval of a majority of the first five.

[Amended to Read.]

The Association shall elect a manager and the first five members of the University nine. These five shall elect from their number a captain, and he shall select the remaining four, subject to the approval of a majority of the first five.

Article IX.—Foot Ball and Cricket.

Foot ball "twenties" and Cricket "elevens" shall be organized at the discretion of the Association.

Article X.—Amendments.

These By-Laws may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the members pre[illegible] meeting.

their work in more effectually than other mathematical men who lived for centuries.

Doubting, yet half believing, these strange reports, the class awaited with interest the approach of this strange visitor. He came. At first he was so gentle and affable that he was thought to have descended from some higher power. Recognizing the transcendental qualities of his nature the class worshipped him. How ab-surd seemed their former doubts and fears. But he soon commenced to get his work in. His mood, at first so kind and gentle, became variable.

For a time this was attributed to indigestion and a general running down of the system, and his churlishness was endured in silence. But matters grew worse; indeed there seemed to be no limit to his tyranny. Kicks became frequent and discontent was a common factor of every recitation.

Calculus would accept nothing but absolute obedience. The tasks which he had given to the class daily received increments, infinitesimal it is true, but the aggregate was immense. He soon demanded the maxima tasks in the minima hours. The class was in despair. X-ecrations where heard on all sides. One of the du boys even went so far as to say that he wished "Old Cal" would dy. Was the wish prophetic? Who can say?

Toward the latter part of June his functions showed signs of approaching dissolution. His pulse was normal, but his brain was evidently giving way under the great pressure brought to bear upon it. Sudden hope sprang up in the breasts of the despairing Sophomores. Would he, too, follow the steps of his ancestors and pass within that bourn from which no traveler returns? Time alone could tell. From this time on his dissolution was rapid. With a tenacity that was born of despair,he clung to life. The silver chord snapped, the golden bow was broken, and J. R. Calculus XII. was numbered with the dead. A final examination was held and he was officially declared defunct.

By unanimous consent of the Sophomores it was decided to give his remains a Christian burial, lest like the unburied of old, his spirit should move to and fro on the earth vexing the children of men. Elaborate preparations were made for his interment; everything that love could suggest or grief prompt, was procured. On the morning of the 22d of June the afflicted (?) Sophomores, accompanied by their friends to the number of one hundred, took a special train and were conveyed with the remains to Skaneateles Lake. Leaving poor "Cal" here until their return, the party, putting on the semblance of joy, went to the head of the lake. The afternoon was spent in boating, dancing and flirting, and it was not until the party was seated round the bountifully (?) spread tables that grief began to manifest itself. During the return trip to Skaneateles the Sophomores were moody and silent. As soon as the wharf was reached they donned their black robes and, with the coffin, were rowed over the still waters. Arrived at the burial place the boats were moored and the ceremonies commenced. In a solemn voice the orator pronounced the eulogy over the body of the friend that we had loved so well. In slow and measured time a dirge was chanted. Grief and sorrow prevailed; not a dry eye could be seen. All of "Cal's" faults and misdoings were forgotten; his virtues were alone recalled. Around the bier friends and enemies united to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed. Suddenly the torch was applied to the coffin, and, amidst a perfect blaze of fireworks, the cremation took place. Not until the last vestige had disappeared did the Sophomores cease their lamentations. When all was over they hurriedly took their places in the cars and at half-past three the next morning reached their homes tired and weary, but happy in the thought that they had done what they could to make comfortable the last resting place of John R. Calculus XII.

Scelus Flagitiosissimum.

VOX JUNIORIS PRO JUSTITIA.

Adored Muse! invoked in vain
Since mighty Milton's loftiest strain
Was 'spired by thee of that great deed
Mankind e'er mourns, but ne'er gives heed;
Descend! and deign immortal breath
Again to thoughts unworthy death.

'Gainst man's first disobedience
And that just edict driving hence
The happy pair from Paradise,
Whence trouble's endless stream took rise,
No condemnation great can stand;
Nor would the high avenging hand
Of Law or Might in any age
Such deed reprove; Nay, history's page
No other-where records a crime
So vastly magnified by time,
And yet, a deed so multiplied
That of all who live and all who've died,
Not one poor mortal can be found
Who never trespassed on like ground.

To paint such crime as Eve essayed,
O Muse, forgive, had I e'er prayed
For aid like thine, in this new age,
When such mild crimes are deeds most sage.
Thou'rt summoned now with all thy powers,
To set in deep Cimmerian dyes,
A crime of crimes to vilest eyes.

A single cycle's round of years
Has scarce begun its flood of tears,
Since, in that land Columbus sired,
Upon the shores not far retired
From wigwams of that mighty band
The Onondagas, where now stand
The classic towers that tastes exalt,
Within the far-famed Mart of Salt,
This deed of shame was erst conceived.
The very darkness scarce received
A shimmering ray of snow-born light,
So grieved it was on that dire night,
When boldly from their foul retreat
Twice four bemuffled forms, complete
In their disguise, with evil tread,
Emerge, consult, reflect no dread,
But cautiously approach a home;
The locks and bars they soon o'ercome;
Ascend the corridors in file,
Revolving in their minds meanwhile
The ghastly deed so vilely planned
Against a fellow of their band.
With softer tread they enter now
The scarce latched door that does allow
The easiest entrance to this base
And craven crowd of Satan's race.
Could shame or honor's weakest sense
Weigh aught with friends, or recompense
Of mercy's sure reward persuade
To better deeds, sure unessayed
Were now this devilish scheme to mar
All honor, mercy, love, and far
Less lofty sentiments than these.

The victim sleeps; in pillowed ease,
Of sense of pain or fear bereft,
He dreams of greatness, nor is left
To doubt his genius' worth or power;
For, in that honor-freighted hour,

His nation's highest gift, the crown
Of rank supreme—most high renown—
Is placed upon his favored head.
His fondest dreams, ambition bred,
Are realized. The thrill of joy,
The utmost sense that can employ
A mortal's soul seemed to infuse
His being's self, and all the hues
Of rosy life the Fates seemed now
To paint with truth upon his brow.
Yea, though a dream, he notes the real
Artistic touch and paint's cold feel,
Laid on by those great artists' hands.
His willing brow receives the bands
Of red, and white, and azure blue,
Bedecked with stars, and many a hue
Unknown to mortal art, nor seen
In rarest gem or dazzling sheen
Of flower or sky. But soon this sense
Of calm repose in power is hence.
The artist's soothing strokes now cease.
Who would his country rule in peace,
Thought he, must act. A sudden call
The nation makes; he rouses all
His powers to show what mettle lies
In him, its choice. But lo! his eyes
Are sealed; his aiding hand, his sight
Restores, and in the dimly moonish light
His place and time return. Soon faint,
The vision fades; but not the paint,
So surely by no stinted hands
Laid on his brow in thickened bands
That over-spread his golden hair
And massy cheek, nor ceasing there,
But as if Ætna had o'er run
Its lofty top and did o'er pour
His couch with ash and melted ore.
A sense of outrage villainous

Gives to his action impetus;
Yet many weary hours he toils
With acids, soaps, and perfumed oils,
Removing stickiest bjith and bjar,
Vile compounds intermixed with tar.

'Mong tribes barbaric when aggrieved,
Or minds near Satan's realm conceived,
'Mong nations 'volved in deadly strife,
It were not strange that human life
Be made the sport of fiendish deed;
But peace and wisdom, want of greed,
No pretext leave for such an act
That state and moral law does fract.

O Justice! aid thy feeble ones;
Avenge thyself; preserve thy sons
From evil plots! Let none e'er mar
Again a favored son with tar!

Medic Melody.

Sung by the spirit of a "resurrected" body at the Medical College; heard by the Janitor while attending the fires after college hours.

Down by the poor house, what did I see,
A horde of students, one, two, three.
Coming for to resurrect me.

With careful step and stealthy tread,
They boldly invade the realms of the dead.
Coming, etc.

The night was dark and the stars were dim,
But they worked by the light of a bull's eye glim.
Coming, etc.

The ground was hard, 'tis winter now,
And they earned their meat by the sweat of their brow.
Coming, etc.

They found the coffin and mashed the lid,
And up through the hole I quickly slid.
Coming, etc.

They raised me up from my peaceful bed,
And away to the medical college I sped.
Coming, etc.

The way was long and the road was rough,
But they were the fellows who had "the stuff."
Coming, etc.

They found the carotid and through the dead,
They sent an injection of bright red lead.
Coming, etc.

The veins they sought out, through and through,
And filled them up with Prussian blue.
Coming, etc.

My flesh was a prey to the fiendish ghouls,
But they could not harm the immortal soul.
Coming, etc.

Must humanity be disgraced,
That science be more highly placed?
Coming, etc.

Cremation is the only way
By which you save your kindred clay.
Coming, etc.

The Editors' Confession.

Upon election, the "Onondagan" Board of Editors saw visions of honor and patronage.

They thought that theirs was to be a lot of influence and power, an Elysium of happiness.

They thought the advertiser would dog them day and night for space.

They dreamed that the demands of subscribers would compel an extra edition.

They saw in their mind's eye a grand financial success, which should insure an immense dividend, after having banqueted themselves in a manner that would put a Roman Epicure to shame.

But alas! it was all in their eye; their visions of honor and fame proved false. Whatever laurels they received were wreathed about their brows by their own hands, or rather those of their engraver.

They soon found the shortest way out of the advertiser's place of business, and they now have the greater part of the first edition on their hands, to be sold at a ruinous discount.

As for the banquet, it cometh to others but not to them, and the dividend is not.
